PIANO-FORTES.
A SWEEPING TRIUMPH!—From the Boston Post of November 15, 1879: CHICKERING & SONS' grand piano, receiving a Gold Medal for UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES and Silver Medals for GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS. This would seem to reaffirm the following clever lines written about them at the Paris Exposition:
"Direct a breath to these brothers so cheery and able, like the Cheery-brothers of Dickens's fable; To do all things well seems to be their great mission, But to do best of all at the 'Great Exposition.' Among all their rivals they bore off the banner, In making the best of the best of the piano. For one 'Legion of Honor' in a far-away region, At home, we assure them, 'honors are legion.' CHICKERING'S PIANOS are sold in Richmond by [J. B. TAYLOR] WOODHOUSE & FAIRMAN.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS FOR MONUMENTAL CHURCH.—The Memorial Window for the Monumental Church, designed by Henry R. Gardner, and W. S. P. Mayo, at the last regular meeting of the vestry of this church it was resolved that memorial windows should be put in the church to the memory of Bishop Moore, who was the second Bishop of Virginia and first rector of the Monumental church; to James H. Gardner, who was vestryman and Sunday-school superintendent for over forty-five years; and to William S. P. Mayo, who was also a vestryman and Sunday-school teacher for a long time. Bishop Moore was a strong claimant on the affection of the churchmen of Virginia. He came from New York in 1814 as Bishop of Virginia and rector of the Monumental church, and did more, it is said, to build up the church than any man connected with it. The Penitentiary Engine.
RICHMOND, January 25, 1879.
Our attention has been called to an article in the Whig dated January 20, 1879, signed "Samuel A. Swann, Superintendent, Virginia Penitentiary." As this card says, "Richmond," as far as can be ascertained, is in this city where such engines are made—none of the kind are made here,—"thereby advertising to the public that all parties who wish a vertical boiler and engine must go north for it, and also implying that we are incapable of building a vertical engine, we desire to say that had Mr. Swann or Mr. Cates applied to either of the undersigned for a vertical boiler and engine of ten-horse-power, or any other size (before he went to Boston to buy), he would have found out that it could have been made in Richmond, and at considerably less cost than was paid in Boston, and also the freight saved (no small item in moving engines and boilers). We have manufactured engines (some of them vertical) and other machinery for Australia, Canada, Russia, Portugal, Brazil, New Orleans, Illinois, Mississippi, and all of the Southern States, but when an engine is wanted in our own State and city by the State to which we annually pay our taxes it must be bought in Boston or some northern city without asking even a bid from us.

The Freshet.
Editors Dispatch: Please accept my thanks for publishing my remarks and suggestion in your estimable paper on the 21st instant; and for the further and no aspirant for contracts in any shape or form whatever; have no land or other property in the vicinity of James river—in a word, have no personal interest at all in the matter; therefore, have no desire to hamper your columns with argument or controversy with any other correspondent. I have no views differ with mine in this proposed scheme. The suggestion offered in my previous letter is purely and simply pro bono publico, and I sincerely trust it will be the means of setting intelligent minds to work, and finally ending in a practical solution of this problem.

HENRICO COUNTY, January 24, 1879.

A Short Study in Statistics.
[From the Cincinnati Times.]
The fear was expressed the other day that the vast emigration in progress towards the western States would result, before long, in crowding the Atlantic States to the verge of bankruptcy. The matter is a serious one, and bears the responsibility of comparative misapprehension exists as to the comparative size of the various States. Men know, in a general way, that Rhode Island, Delaware, and Connecticut have a small area in comparison with the great States of the West and South. But in the examination of the census returns have not taken into account the different sizes, and many fall into queer errors about the size of States like Pennsylvania and Kansas, or New York and Colorado. They look at the county maps of the smaller and older States and bring home the impression that they are small.
